

New internal door Nero from Lebo

Exclusive design with high-quality veneers and a solid-coloured door deck

Lebo presents Nero, its latest series of doors that is setting new standards in internal door design with exclusive veneered surface finishes and a top-quality, solid-coloured door deck. With their contemporary yet timeless design, these doors offer building owners, property developers and architects a stylish solution for sophisticated interiors.

Innovative materials and a contemporary design

The Nero series is set apart by the use of completely pigmented carrier material, elegantly accentuated by precise milling on the door deck. The continuous V-grooves, which run in harmonious lines along the surface, emphasise the contemporary design and turn the door into a standout feature in the room. A range of 40 milled doors is available, tailored to the surface finish.

There are 12 exclusive real-wood veneers to choose from, combining natural grain with solid-coloured HDF covering material to create a contemporary appearance. This door series is also available with high-quality premium lacquers and robust DURAT or HPL coatings that meet the requirements of more heavily frequented areas.

Wide range of design possibilities

The Nero series offers various edge options – from angular to flush-fitting. In the veneered or HPL versions, the visible oak or beech batten is coated with transparent lacquer to accentuate the wood. A standout feature is the harmonious alignment of the millings in the veneer grain direction: Cross-veneers have horizontal V-grooves, longitudinal-veneers get vertical ones. In addition, custom designs such as logos or lettering can be integrated directly into the door. Custom milling allows unique designs to be integrated into the door surface finish, perfect for both commercial and residential properties. Names, logos, and symbols can be elegantly incorporated, offering a higher-quality alternative to conventional signs or stickers.

Finished with elegant accessories

Nero series design doors can be stylishly finished with matching black accessories such as lever handles, hinges, locks and lock plates.

Further information: www.lebo.de

Images and captions:

Image 1: Elegance in every line: The Nero model in cross-veneer knotty oak matt features a striking V-groove and a solid-coloured door deck – a testament to contemporary design.

Photo: Lebo GmbH

About Lebo:

Founded in 1871, Lebo is one of the oldest manufacturers of internal doors and frames in Germany. As a medium-sized, family-run company and full-range supplier, Lebo produces standard doors, style doors, design doors and functional doors in a wide range of surface finishes. In addition, Lebo offers an extensive range of accessories, glass doors and the scope to meet extra requests such as doors from a quantity of 1. Lebo manufactures at two locations in Germany and delivers "Quality Made in Germany" to more than 40 countries worldwide.